The SERV Foundation needs your support

Dear Friend of SERV,

We are pleased to present this 2016 SERV Art Calendar to our donors who have generously supported the mission of SERV Behavioral Health System, Inc. At SERV, we share our experience, support and guidance with children, adults and families as they work to recover from and cope with mental illness, addictions, challenging behaviors or intellectual/developmental disabilities.

The calendar, a product of The SERV Foundation, spotlights the creativity of residents and consumers with SERV Centers of New Jersey and SERV Achievement Centers. Those whose works are featured here were winners in an art and poetry contest conducted earlier in the year.

Before you display the calendar in your home or office in the coming year, please use the attached remittance envelope when you plan your end-of-year giving. Your donation will help support The SERV Foundation's two special programs, neither of which is funded by the state. These include the Scholarship Fund for consumers and the annual SERV Wellness & Development Conference for consumers and family members.

Let us provide you with some history of these programs.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND: During the past 11 years, the SERV Foundation has awarded 201 scholarships totaling $229,302.15 to 157 adult SERV consumers (some multiple times). The recipients, all of whom are recovering from severe and persistent mental illness or coping with other disabilities, are seeking post-secondary education to fulfill their goals of increased self-reliance. They seek aid from the SERV Foundation's Scholarship Fund because they have exhausted all possibilities for funding elsewhere.

SERV staff members remain involved with our scholarship recipients throughout the school year by offering support and encouragement and reviewing their progress.

Based on statistical data compiled by SERV since the program's start-up, 79% of scholarship recipients successfully complete their classes. Some have gone on to earn bachelor's and master's degrees or certificates in a trade, and have been able to gain employment in their field of study.

One such consumer is Ernie R., a SERV Centers resident from our Northern Region who joined SERV in 2002. Because of the 12 scholarships he received over the years from The SERV Foundation, Ernie was able to earn bachelor's degrees in both Elementary Education and Studio Art from William Paterson University. He now has a job as a substitute teacher in Passaic County and teaches a wide variety of subjects. He recently was the guest speaker at the 25th Annual Volley For SERV Tennis Tournament reception, where he thanked our donors for helping him to achieve his goals.

WELLNESS & DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE: Originally begun in 2002 as the "Client Conference" in an empty office space at a SERV Centers office in Clifton with 85 people in attendance, the "SERV Wellness & Development Conference" today has blossomed to more than 430 consumers, family members and staff at a rented facility. These ever-growing attendance numbers have necessitated a change of venues several times, with the last 6 years at The Pines Manor in Edison.

The daylong conference, with the theme, "Celebrating Achievements through Wellness and Recovery," is planned by a cross-section of both consumers and staff from SERV Centers of New Jersey and SERV Achievement Centers. Collaborative in nature, they imagine, plan and execute a day of life-improving and life-affirming educational seminars and workshops that allow people to exchange stories, share frustrations, and build friendships. It also provides people with mental illness or intellectual/developmental disabilities and their family members the opportunity to network, gain encouragement and learn the tools needed to improve their quality of life.

Attendees may choose from a variety of wellness workshops focused on helping them achieve their objectives, whether it is to make better food choices, take care of their medical needs, become more physically active, stop smoking, reconnect with relatives, return to work or school, or learn a new hobby.

And based on conference evaluations over the years, our consumers and family members say they leave the event feeling empowered.

To fund these programs, The SERV Foundation depends on grants from area corporations, sponsorships from the annual Volley For SERV Tennis Tournament and other fundraisers, and donations from individuals.

Please support The SERV Foundation in its mission to provide these exceptional programs benefiting our consumers, their families and the community at large.

From all of us here at SERV, we thank you for your past donations and wish you and your families a healthy and happy new year.

‘Brewer’s Sparrow’

For nearly 12 years, Susan R. has been a resident with SERV Centers of N.J.-Central Region in Middlesex County. She and four other women reside in a farmhouse that was donated to SERV years ago by a consumer’s parents.

Susan’s artwork has won and appeared in SERV’s Art Calendar several times in the past. She briefly attended art school when she was younger, but has no formal training, as such. Susan loves the challenge of drawing and feels a sense of accomplishment when finished.

For this year’s winning artwork, titled “Brewer’s Sparrow,” Susan drew on her love of bird watching, particularly at Cape May, for inspiration. “Birds are very easy for me to draw; I like to put a lot of detail into the feathers and in nature, like trees or grass,” she said.

Recently, Susan found out that she is going to be a grandmother for the first time. She is planning a trip to North Carolina to visit her expecting daughter and meet her son-in-law for the first time, as well.

Susan has just signed on as a volunteer at Plainsboro Public Library.

'Tea Pot'

Lori S. has been a resident with SERV Centers of N.J.-Central Region in Middlesex County since 2005.

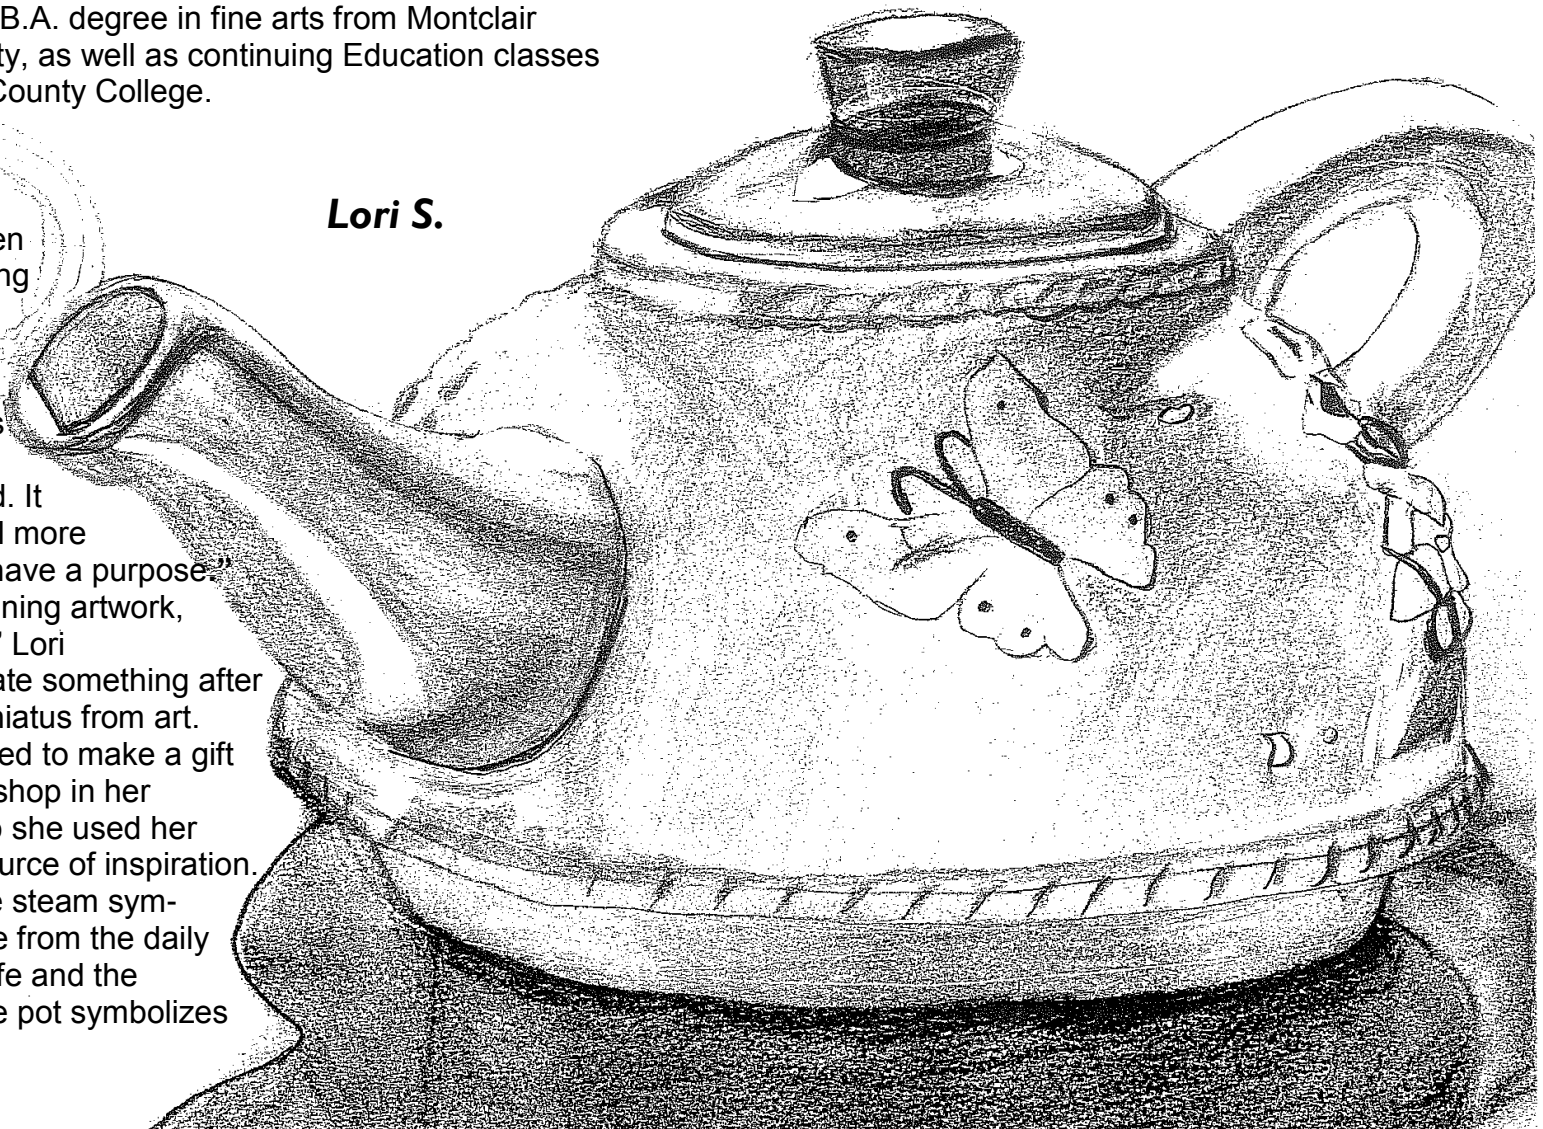

Lori has a B.A. degree in fine arts from Montclair State University, as well as continuing Education classes at Middlesex County College.

Art is an important aspect of Lori's life. When asked if creating art helps in her Recovery, she said, "It makes me feel more vital and proud. It makes me feel more normal, like I have a purpose."

For her winning artwork, titled "Teapot," Lori wanted to create something after taking a long hiatus from art. She also wanted to make a gift for the coffee shop in her community, so she used her teapot as a source of inspiration.

To Lori, the steam symbolizes escape from the daily pressures of life and the butterfly on the pot symbolizes freedom.

‘Light My Way’

Arlene Gelman has been a resident with SERV Centers of N.J.-Central Region in Middlesex County since 2007.

Arlene has no formal art training, except for a few art classes at Rutgers Continuing Learning Program. Through the years, she has developed and refined her craft.

“I find that with art, I can just go into my own little world when I paint,” said Arlene, who also writes poetry and short stories.

Arlene Gelman

When Arlene entered “Light My Way,” she submitted a piece that was very personal to her. “Lighthouses are a symbol of hope to me, guiding ships to shore and guiding sailors by a shining beacon to follow home,” she said. She finds lighthouses to be spiritual and calming. Arlene lived in Barnegat, N.J., for almost 9 years and she enjoyed visiting the “Old Barney” lighthouse with her 5 children. (Arlene now has 5 grandchildren).

In her spare time, Arlene volunteers at SAVE Animal Shelter in Princeton.

Shanna-Rae M. has won the SERV Art Contest several times for her poetry, and her latest, "Depression," captured the judges' attention once again.

"Depression" was drafted through a feeling of the moment. "Suffering from bipolar is kind of difficult because you have the ranges of mood swings, so one day or one week I may be manic ... it is much better than the depressive part. Everyone wants to be high energy, but it is much harder to pull yourself out of the depression. But, there is always hope."

"My poems always reflect an emotion or a period of my life in which I may be struggling in or it might be just a bad day, but toward the end of the poem it's always hopeful. I have been through it before and I know it will pass, so that gives me hope. My support system with SERV has always helped me and I know that I can go and talk to the staff any time I need them; they are there for me. And that also gives me hope," Shanna-Rae said.

Shanna-Rae has been a resident of SERV Centers of N.J.-Northern Region in Passaic County since 2006. Currently, she attends SERV's Adapt program and cherishes her time there. "I appreciate SERV. They have helped me so much in my recovery, in both physical and emotional."

'Depression'

Sometimes when you're feeling low
You don't want anyone to know
You try to keep your sense of pride
You want to run away and hide

The echoes whisper in your brain
That you are crazy or insane
But deep inside you that's not real
It may be now just how you feel

Shanna-Rae M.

Sometimes all we need to see
Is that someone sees inside of me
And offers me a helping hand
And lets me know they understand

Sometimes depression hits you hard
It makes you lose your long kept guard
Sometimes alone at night you cry
And ask the soaking, sobbing "Why"

But we must learn to carry on
In spite of it we must stay strong
For one day we will surely rise
Like a Phoenix to the skies

If we stand firm and don't give in There's no way depression will ever win
So when you feel all hope is gone
Just be sure to carry on

Reach out don't keep it all inside
Swallow hard your wounded pride
And if you only don't succumb
One day soon you'll overcome

'Sleeping Bear'

Evelio Perez came to SERV Centers of N.J.-Northern Region a year ago. He currently resides in a Level-B group home in Hudson County. He also attends Mt. Carmel Guild for group discussions, exercising, or learning activities to help aid in his recovery.

In his spare time, Evelio enjoys watching science and historical documentaries and playing chess.

Evelio is a self-taught artist. During a long hospital stay, he took up drawing for therapy and had the guidance of an art therapist while there.

Evelio feels the relaxing nature of drawing helps him in his recovery. "When I start drawing, it is a combination of all these things that soothes me, calms me, relaxes me and it makes me feel very good."

This was especially true for his winning artwork, "Sleeping Bear."

‘Rainbow Garden’

A Passaic County resident with SERV Centers of N.J.-Northern Region, Erin Allen has been with SERV for 6 years. Erin became engaged this past summer and she and her fiancé are planning to marry next year.

Erin enjoys traveling and recently returned from a trip to Puerto Rico.

Erin says that creating art is a family trait. “Art and other creative things like writing have run in my family,” she said. “I have been doing artwork as long as I can remember. I grew up around art; my dad had art books all around the house. He painted, and my brother paints.”

For “Rainbow Garden,” Erin said, “I just wanted to experiment with my oil pastels. They looked so colorful and looking at flowers and nature makes me feel tranquil.”

Expressing herself through art helps Erin to focus on the positive. “I feel happiest when I am creating.”

‘Mid-West Comet’

For more than 30 years, Carl Cusanelli has been a resident with SERV Centers of N.J.-Central Region. He currently resides in one of SERV's apartments in Middlesex County. Carl attends a group therapy session weekly where he talks with others about anxiety and depression.

In his spare time, Carl refurbishes wood furniture and enjoys crafting kayaks out of pencils and leather, and ships out of cardboard and Popsicle sticks. He also likes to create artwork with oil pastels, watercolors or acrylic paint. "Ever since I was 16, I liked painting and drawing," he said, referring to the age when he was hospitalized and began attending art therapy sessions.

For his winning entry, "Mid-West Comet," Carl used oil pastels to create a scene in the Midwest. He felt that the white comet added a nice contrast to the characteristically dark blue sky of the region. Carl enjoyed stargazing when he was young and said, "My dream was to go out West, but I never had enough money."

Carl said that whether he is working on painting, crafting or furniture restorations, seeing the finished product gives him a sense of accomplishment, which enhances his program of recovery.

'The Way He Made Us'

Tresea Hall has been with SERV Centers of N.J.-Central Region since February 2002 and currently resides in Middlesex County in a Shared Living home with four other women.

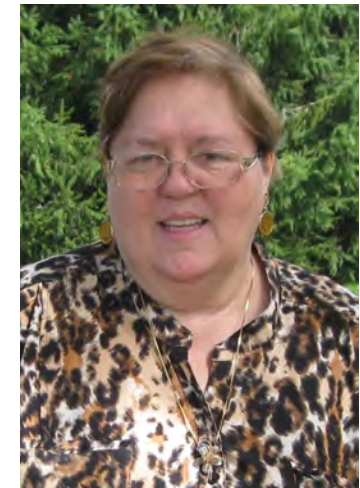

While she has never taken an art class, Tresea likes to pick up her drawing pencil whenever she gets the notion.

Her drawings are representations of emotions and ideas from the moment. The therapeutic aspects of drawing are especially helpful, she says, when she is feeling upset.

Tresea is a Born Again Christian "struggling to do the right thing," she said. Her winning artwork "The Way He Made Us" was a personal message of her faith. Created with pencil, it was inspired from Psalm 139, Verse 14. She read: "I will praise you for I am fearfully and wonderfully made; marvelous are your works and my soul knows very well."

In addition to drawing, Tresea enjoys cross-stitch and embroidery.

'Free Adventure'

Alexandro Pinho has been with SERV Achievement Centers -Western Region for 12 years. She resides in one of SERV's Therapeutic Foster Care homes in Burlington County.

For the SERV Art Contest, Alexandro crocheted an afghan, which she titled "Free Expression."

Alexandro Pinho

Alexandro said it was important for her to use bright colors in the afghan. "The colors are the rainbow colors which represent gay pride, which is important to me."

When crocheting, knitting or sewing, Alexandro said she is able to block out any surrounding negativity. It also is a way for her to relax and meditate.

SERV Recovery NJ Conference

Scott Nychay, a former editorial cartoonist who now uses his art to manage co-occurring disorders, speaks to more than 400 SERV consumers, family members and staff during the 12th annual SERV Recovery NJ Conference in October 2014 at The Pines Manor in Edison. Participants also attended two out of 10 workshops focusing on Wellness and Recovery.

‘Majestic Mountains’

Michael Herman has been a resident with SERV Centers of N.J.-Central Region since 1985 and shares an apartment in Middlesex County.

Since a teenager, Michael has had a keen interest in art. He attended duCret School of Arts to refine his process and learn new techniques.

He loves to incorporate mountains into his artwork. In fact, it seems like whenever he creates something it turns into a mountain, he said. His winning artwork, “Majestic Mountain,” was no different.

Michael believes that creating art helps him toward recovery and relieves stress. “It keeps your mind occupied, so I don’t think about things that annoy me or weigh my mind down,” he said.

Thank you to SERV artists and contest judges

Congratulations to the ten consumers who were selected to have their artwork and poetry featured in The SERV Foundation's 2016 SERV Art Calendar.

The judging of the Art Calendar Contest took place August 21, 2015 at the Administration Office. The top-ten pieces of artwork or poetry were selected among 28 entries from talented consumers from SERV Centers of New Jersey and SERV Achievement Centers.

The Judges' Panel comprised Dr. Susan Bell, an optometrist from Ewing; Gary van Nostrand, CEO/president of SERV Behavioral Health System, Inc.;

Lisa Coscia, Chief Operating Officer of SERV Achievement Centers; SERV board members Andre Caldini, Peter Doolan and John Maret; and Amy Lamberson, Human Resources.

Thank you to all who participated in this project.

Behavioral Health System, Inc.

Our Mission

SERV Behavioral Health System, Inc. is a private, nonprofit behavioral healthcare organization serving adults and children throughout the state who are working to recover from or cope with a serious mental illness and/or intellectual/developmental disability. We know that every person can make a valuable contribution to the community. That is why SERV integrates housing and supportive services to address the needs of the whole person and not just an illness. It is our goal to assist the people who come into our care to live and work successfully in their communities as they gradually build more independent and meaningful lives outside the walls of an institution.
